INTOUCH SOLUTIONS PROMOTES MULTIPLE KANSAS CITY EMPLOYEES

KANSAS CITY (August 9, 2016) – Intouch Solutions proudly announces the promotion of six employees in its Overland Park, Kansas, office. A leading marketing agency serving the pharmaceutical industry, Intouch Solutions has seen rapid expansion over the past five years and actively promotes within the 650-person firm.

The six employees include:

Andy Brown, account director, is an integral part of the Kansas City account team. Known for his stellar project activation and client relationship building skills, Brown has grown both personally and professionally since joining Intouch in 2011. Brown has been essential to growing a key account, leading the effort to create its first responsive website. Previously an account supervisor, Brown's can-do attitude, willingness to work through any challenge and commitment to outstanding performance exemplify best-in-class account service. As account director, Brown oversees a key piece of business and works on new business initiatives.

Paige Carrier, account supervisor, joined Intouch in 2010 as an intern and has proven herself to be an invaluable asset to her team and clients. Most recently, Carrier became an immediate and trusted partner on a key piece of business. Her strategic oversight has led to many successful project launches and continued positive growth. Most recently a senior account manager, Carrier's ambitious attitude is reflected in all she does. In her new role as account supervisor, Carrier works with clients to plan, execute, manage and analyze digital marketing campaigns. She serves as a client liaison on a daily basis, and is responsible for building and maintaining a strong partner relationship with clients. Carrier is the key contributor for the client's day-to-day issues and projects.

Brad Abell, account manager, joined Intouch in January 2014 as an account administrator. Abell quickly became a go-to resource for an important account, and helped onboard new members of the team. Recently, Abell has taken on greater responsibility, becoming involved in additional accounts where he has shown his expertise. He demonstrates active participation in strategic development and knows how to lead the larger team in tactical exercises. As account manager, Abell manages an eCRM campaign targeting healthcare professionals, as well as works with new business pitches.

Katelyn Lesiak, account manager, is always willing to go the extra mile to get the job done, and effortlessly delivers quality work. Lesiak started at Intouch as an account services intern in June 2014, then was hired on full-time to work as an account administrator in August of the same year. During her time at Intouch, Lesiak has quickly mastered the inner workings of the agency business, and while working on two important brands, she quickly developed strong account management skills. As account manager, Lesiak provides project and billing support to the rest of her account team, as well as project management teams. She manages project development and works with internal and external teams to ensure timelines are met.

Catherine Maevers, account manager, started working at Intouch as an account administrator in March 2015. Since then, Maevers has demonstrated all the qualities of a good account person. A great listener, relationship builder, resourceful and trustworthy, she understands client challenges and offers Intouch's services to meet their needs. Maevers consistently brings great ideas to the table and thinks about how Intouch can do things better, faster and smarter. As account manager, Maevers is responsible for all branded efforts for a key client, which include a new website launch and CRM program. She is the lead contact for day-to-day client communication, timing and execution of projects, as well as financial tracking. Maevers is also responsible for understanding client priorities and expectations and communicating them internally.

Joe James, account manager, continuously demonstrates his ability to go above and beyond his role to take on challenges, such as managing a 1,200-page website submission and authoring project briefs. James joined Intouch as an account administrator following his college graduation in June 2014. His bullet-proof resilience and can-do attitude are appreciated and recognized by clients and agency partners alike. In his new role as account manager, James oversees the day-to-day operations of multiple projects, managing internal resources, external partners and clients, all the while becoming a trusted confidante for all involved.
